It is the policy of the American Gaming Association (AGA) in advocating on behalf of the casino gaming industry and its members to conduct business in compliance with all applicable laws, rules and regulations. Further, it is the AGA's policy to conduct business with integrity and consistent with the highest ethical principles. As such, in applying for membership to the AGA and as an AGA member, you, on behalf of the member or prospective member, agree to:

- Abide by applicable laws, rules and regulations;
- Deal honestly and fairly with the AGA and other members;
- Safeguard the confidential business information of the AGA and other members that is gained through membership in the AGA; and
- Review and comply with AGA's Code of Conduct for Responsible Gaming, a copy of which is attached. Under the AGA's Code of Conduct for Responsible Gaming, a member pledges to its employees, customers and communities to make responsible gaming an integral part of the member's daily operations, including through responsible gaming, alcohol service and marketing and advertising; employee training; and support for research initiatives and public awareness surrounding responsible gaming and underage gaming.

Violations of this AGA Member Code of Conduct will be referred to the Executive Committee of AGA's Board of Directors. Disciplinary actions may include the suspension or termination of membership.

Having read and understood this AGA Member Code of Conduct and the related Code of Conduct for Responsible Gaming, I agree on behalf of the member or prospective member company to act in accordance with these policies and principles.
