Q2 Gaming Revenue Contracts Nearly 80 Percent

U.S. commercial casino gross gaming revenue (GGR) totaled $2.30 billion in the second quarter of 2020. This is down 78.8 percent from the same three-month period in 2019 and down 75.6 percent from the first quarter of 2020 as casinos remained shuttered throughout most of Q2.

In the first six months of 2020, commercial gaming revenue contracted 45.6 percent compared to the same period last year. This stark drop would have been even more severe had it not been for gaming's record performance during January and February, when revenue grew 10.6 percent over the same period last year.

2020 | Second Quarter

Brick-and-Mortar Gaming Returns

Following the near-total shutdown of the U.S. casino gaming industry for much of March and April, by the close of the second quarter, more than 4 in 5 U.S. casinos had reopened for business, including 388 commercial casinos across 18 of 25 commercial markets.

In certain states, the hoped-for pent up demand for gaming materialized: several states saw average daily slot and table game revenue per open brick-and-mortar casino actually increase from 2019, including Delaware, Indiana, Ohio, Oklahoma, and South Dakota. Meanwhile, drops in average daily gaming revenue per casino in other states were influenced by several factors, such as continued property closures (e.g., more profitable casinos remained closed or opened later in Q2), limited games types (e.g., Arkansas and Rhode Island did not allow table games in Q2), and limited gaming positions as required by state and local reopening guidelines.

COMMERCIAL GAMING REVENUE TRACKER

2020 | Second Quarter

Sports Betting Surpassed by iGaming During Pandemic

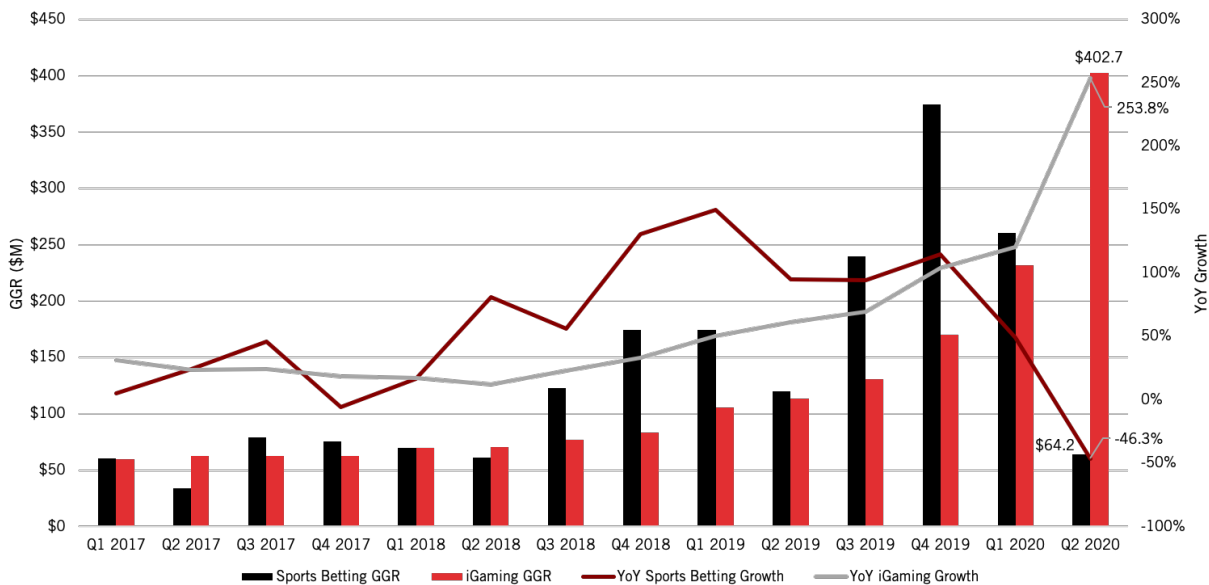

With sporting events largely curtailed for most of the second quarter, sportsbooks recorded $64.2 million in gross revenue in Q2, down 46.3% from 2019 and marking the first quarter with negative year-over-year growth in the post-PASPA era. The near complete closure of physical sportsbooks and limited sporting events was compounded by the continued inability of consumers to remotely register mobile wagering accounts in Iowa, Nevada, and Rhode Island.

Despite the enormous quarterly decline year-over-year, sports betting revenue for the first half of 2020 remains up 10.4% from the same period last year. Q1 2020 outperformed 2019 by 49.3 percent due, in part, to legal sportsbooks going live in 12 states over the past year.

Amid the absence of traditional gaming options, iGaming has continued to break revenue records throughout the first half of 2020, growing 253.8% in the second quarter from 2019. Q2 also marked the first full quarter with iGaming generating more revenue than sports betting in the post-PASPA era. Between the demise of PASPA and the outbreak of COVID-19, sports betting had consistently been growing at a higher rate than iGaming, but that trend has shifted for the time being. To date, iGaming revenue has nearly tripled (189.8%) in 2020 from the same period last year.
